Set up your library account

When you claim your CNet ID, you may also ask to have your Library account activated so that you can check out books. A CNet ID is necessary in order to set up a Chalk course webpage, which is required in order to put materials on reserve for your course.

Requests for research or delivery of materials

The Library supports adjunct faculty's teaching and course material needs. Request research assistance or delivery of library materials by email to bookpage@law.uchicago.edu. If time is of the essence, please call the Reference Desk (2-9631) during business hours for immediate attention.

We will obtain materials from any campus library, process interlibrary loans and recalls, and handle reference requests and short-term research projects related to your teaching. Materials you request will be held for you at the Law Circulation Desk, or delivered electronically, as appropriate.

Current awareness resources

Law journals

Washington & Lee's Current Law Journal Content provides tables of contents for law journals delivered by email or RSS feed. See CLJC (<http://lawlib.wlu.edu/CLJC/>) .

Working papers

The Legal Scholarship Network (part of the Social Sciences Research Network or SSRN) contains working papers, forthcoming articles and other legal scholarship. LSN provides full-text access to most posted papers.

Non-legal journals

Contents Alert Economics is an email alert for over 65 journals in economics, finance and business published by Elsevier/North Holland. Email alerts are available for other social science and humanities journals, e.g. Journal of Risk & Uncertainty.

BNA database email newsletters

BNA provides email newsletters for its web-based database products, e.g. United States Law Week, Criminal Law Reporter, Antitrust & Trade Regulation Report. See BNA Databases for a list.

Other law databases

See the D'Angelo Law Library law databases page.

For subscription information and assistance with current awareness resources, contact the Faculty Services Librarian (schilt@uchicago.edu).

Library catalogs

University of Chicago Library Catalog (contains holdings of all University of Chicago Libraries)

Lens (U of C Library search engine)

WorldCat (contains holdings of over 40,000 libraries worldwide)

See Law Library website under Catalogs (<http://www.lib.uchicago.edu/e/law/>)

Electronic resources

Law journals

HeinOnline, LegalTrac, Index to Legal Periodicals

- Non-legal journals JSTOR, Ebsco, Web of Knowledge, EconLit, etc.
- Law databases CCH, BNA, Pike & Fischer, Inc., Congressional Universe, etc.
- E-journals list Electronic access to full-text of journals
- Database finder Find databases in all subjects, searchable alphabetically and by subject

Westlaw and LexisNexis: Contact the Faculty Services Librarian for passwords and training.

Access to most University of Chicago electronic resources is IP address authenticated. If a resource requests a username and password, use the ProxyIt! link. A few resources are accessed with a username and password, which can be obtained from the Faculty Services Librarian. For computing questions generally contact Ted Ressel, Law School Director of Information Technology, at 702-5866 or the computer helpdesk at 834-5300.

Teaching and course support

Reserves and materials requests

Before the quarter, the Library and Registrar will send you a letter with a list of your courses, a form for requesting materials to be placed on reserve, and a form for notifying the bookstore of required texts. Please return the text list to the Registrar and the reserve list to the Law Library. To make sure we have enough copies, please return the list as soon as possible.

Chalk course webpages

Training for Chalk users is available: see Chalk for dates and times. If you request course reserves, you will need a Chalk page for your course. If you'd like assistance with your Chalk page, contact the Faculty Services Librarian.

Posting materials on your Chalk page may raise copyright issues. The Library recommends links to licensed databases instead of posting PDF files, whenever possible. Request links through the bookpage email (bookpage@law.uchicago.edu), or the Faculty Services Librarian.

Academic honesty issues

See the University of Chicago Library academic honesty webpage (<http://www.lib.uchicago.edu/e/using/instruct/academichonesty.html>) for University policies on academic honesty and other resources for faculty and students on these issues.

Other course support services

The librarians can prepare a subject-specific research guide for your class or conduct a research tutorial during class time or independently scheduled. Contact the Faculty Services Librarian.

The Library may subscribe your students to one or more course-related BNA email newsletters during your course. You will receive an email advising you of this, with the name of the newsletters.

Previous exams

The Law Library exams webpage has examinations from the past five years, student answers and any faculty memos that we have received. Your old exams and student answers will be posted, unless you notify us that you do not wish us to do so.

Circulation

Check books out

- Anything we deliver to you is already checked out to you.
- You may check out books at the Law Circulation desk on the second floor.

Return books

- Return all Library materials, including recalled books, to the Circulation Desk.
- If you return Library materials by mail or FedEx, please send them to the attention of the Faculty Services Librarian.

For more information, see the D'Angelo Law Library webpage (<http://www.lib.uchicago.edu/e/law/>).
