Classroom II

Conspiracy theories have always shadowed governments, religions, and organized societies. How and when do they arise? How can they be distinguished from contrarian views that eventually displace convention and become scientifically or sensibly accepted? And how do our current law students think about events they are too young to have experienced, like JFK’s assassination and 9/11—both well-worn subjects for conspiracy theorists?

Presented by Saul Levmore, William B. Graham Distinguished Service Professor of Law, and Julie Roin, Seymour Logan Professor of Law.

Take part in a fascinating conversation about Alexander Hamilton—the man, the myth, the musical.

Members of each Law School Reunion class join together to make a Class Gift, a collective class contribution to the Law School made in honor of their graduation from the institution.

The cost of providing a world-class education continues to rise, and gifts to the Law School are critical in maintaining the educational excellence of the Institution. Reunion is the perfect opportunity to begin, renew, or increase your support of the Law School.

Gifts to the Law School:
- Support the daily operations of the Law School.
- Provide financial aid and scholarship assistance to students, which allow the Law School to compete for the best and brightest students.
- Help us attract and retain outstanding faculty—gifts to the Annual Fund and the Faculty Fund allow the Law School to continue to attract and retain accomplished scholars.
- Support vital student services, activities, and publications.
- Enable the Law School to maintain its building facilities.
- Allow for timely attention to high-priority needs.
- Fund Clinical education and projects.
- Support policy initiatives and programming.

Any gift and/or pledge or pledge payment made to the Law School during the Reunion fiscal year (July 1, 2016–June 30, 2017) by a Reunion class member counts toward the Class Gift. In addition, all matching gifts count as well.

Please direct any questions about the Reunion Campaign to Robyn Drummond at robynk@uchicago.edu or 773.834.5961.

Help your class reach its goals by making your gift today.
