Introduction by R. M. MacIver
Neoliberal penalty: the birth of natural order, the illusion of free markets [harcourt, 2011]
F.A. Hayek

“how can we make best use of the spontaneous forces found in a free society”
Milton Friedman: “underlying most arguments against the free market is a lack of belief in freedom itself” [15]
Bentham’s legacy: Beckerian Economics
we must not pass laws that disrupt the operation of normal competitive markets.
“Crime is simply market bypassing”

Judge Richard A. Posner
“The major function of criminal law in a capitalist society is to prevent people from bypassing the system of voluntary, compensated exchange – the ‘market,’ explicit or implicit – in situations where, because transaction costs are low, the market is, virtually by definition, the most efficient method of allocating resources. Attempts to bypass the market will therefore be discouraged by a legal system bent on promoting efficiency.”
